'LET ME DIE FOR MY DAUGHTER;
I AM OVER 70: SHE MUST LIVE'

AGED WOMAN "READY ANY TIME" TO GIVE LIFE FOR DAUGHTER

His Vincente Laurio, the gray haired mother of Mrs. Lena Cusumano, made a touching appeal today to be permitted to go to the death chair in place of her daughter.

The broken-hearted mother says she is seventy years old, that she has at most but a few years to live and that her daughter has three children. After seeing her daughter today, the old mother planned to visit Governor Foss in the interest of her daughter.

Mrs. Cusumano was cheerful today. She sang softly in the death cell she occupies. Her fate and that of Maselli, condemned to death with her, for the murder of her husband, will be settled by the Executive Council next Wednesday.

The possibility of a mass exodus East from the University of Michigan and athletes' agents figured that they might cause a surprise.

The program consisted of thirteen events as follows: One hundred-yard dash, 400-yard dash, half-mile run, mile run, two-mile run, 100-yard hurdle race, 220-yard hurdle race, 400-yard hurdle race, 800-yard broad jump, (throwing the hammer, putting the shot and pole vault).

Among the entries, in addition to the three teams for places were Michigan, Dartmouth, Princeton, Columbia University and the Massachusetts Institute of Tech-

Fire Breakthroughs On

Patrick Hough of Charleston, a civilian undergrounder at work in the hole of the United Mines collier near Altoona, Pa., last month, was killed by a load of coal that fell from a heavy yard, was killed by being hurled beneath an avalanche of broken coal.

John J. Shipa and Timothy Kerrigan, two other undergrounders at work with Hough at the same collier, are credited with saving minor injuries by being hurled beneath the falling coal pile, but were not

The new headquarters will probably be constructed in conjunction with the high school building.

Rings Wedding Bells
in Town of Everett

ANNIE MAY CAPEN

"Polly," young James T. Fry's parrot—one of the most popular parrots in Everett—stopped biting her cracker long enough today to sing a sentimental love ditly. Polly was happy. There was a reason why, and it was because "Poll" has put a new feather in her cap by bringing her young master a bride-to-be. Everett neighbors of Mrs. Elizabeth Capen, with whom Mr. Fry is boarding at No. 79

Irving street, Everett, say that not only is the romance of the young man's love the strangest ever, but in their opinion "Polly" is the first parrot to play the role of Dan Cupid.

"I love you, I LOVE you," sang "Polly"

Eighteen-year-old Annie May, Mrs. Capen's daughter, was so happy as she stood by that she was tempted to join in the refrain of the love song. It is she whom "Polly's" master will lead to the

DR. ROBERTS IS DENIED DIVORCE

Walter N. Roberts, a dentist at No. 12 Huntington avenue, was refused a divorce from his wife, Mrs. Frances M. Roberts of No. 28 Grosvenor street, Dorchester, by Judge Pitman today.

The case has attracted much attention. Dr. Roberts alleged that his wife slapped him on the face on numerous occasions, threw him out of bed, kicked and punched him and made him live on a vegetable diet. Judge Pitman, who decided that the charges of cruel and abusive treatment had not been proved, saying that if there were any it was due to Mrs. Roberts' physical condition, who is of a highly nervous temperament.

The couple were married when they were nineteen, at Atlantic City, 1901. His father, Dr. A. J. Roberts, and his wife were divorced after their marriage. It was brought out that when the couple were married, his wife earned $20 until the birth of a daughter.

WALL STREET SEES END OF TAFT; OFFERS ROOSEVELT ODDS

The Boston News Bureau today says: Wall Street now considers that Taft is gone as a presidential possibility, and Wall Street is related that with him goes Mr. Woodhull, who is reported as one having a greater knowledge of law and its intricacies than of common-sense justice.

Not only are odds offered that Roosevelt is nominated, but wagers are offered even that Roosevelt gets the nomination on the first ballot.

The Taft family can take satisfaction that a large majority continues this will not be expected from him this year. It is said in the State that it was Henry W. Taft, 1860,000 years ago to secure for his brother the Republican nomination, notwithstanding that he was then the candidate of Mr. Roosevelt.

PROTEST TO FOSS ON EAST BOSTON ROAD

East Boston citizens, headed by Representative Edward C. R. Bagley, called on Governor Foss today and urged him to veto the bill to permit the East Boston Land Company to construct a terminal freight railroad. A petition of protest signed by 100 residents of Orient Heights was presented.

Ethel Conrad Also Expected to Demand Damages for 'Malicious Prosecution.'

NEW YORK, May 31.—Lillian Graham, the young woman who, with Ethel Conrad, was acquitted last December of an attempt to kill W. E. D. Stokes, the millionaire hotel proprietor, when he visited the apartment of the two girls, the previous June today brought suit against Stokes for $100,000 damages for alleged malicious prosecution.

It was intimated by Clark L. Jordan, counsel for Mrs. Graham, that a second suit for $100,000 damages on the same ground would be brought against Mr. Stokes within a short time by Miss Conrad.

ADJ.-GEN. PEARSON HAS LOMBARD REPORT

Adjutant-General Pearson today said that he has received the report of the special court of inquiry upon the charge against Colonel Walter E. Lombard, commanding the Coast Artillery Corps that he has impaired the efficiency of his command. General Pearson received the report today and has referred it to Judge Advocate General W. L. Rogers who will go through the report and the findings.

NO COMPROMISE, SAYS COLONEL

NEW YORK, May 31.—"No compromise" in Ohio was the situation given today by Theodore Roosevelt when he heard that an attempt was being made to divide the delegates-at-large to be elected for the Ohio Republican nomination between himself and President Taft. Yesterday, President Taft sent a message to Arthur Vorys, saying that he would not compromise and today Colonel Roosevelt sent this:

Hon. Walter F. Brown, President Headquarters, Columbus, O.

I have just seen a telegram sent by Mr. Taft to Mr. Vorys about a compromise in Ohio. (Gull) I see this telegram I had never heard the suggestion that there should be any compromise, and I, of course, assume that any such suggestion came from the Taft faction.

In the first place I would not consent to a compromise division, and secondly, I would not consent to a compromise division of the delegates-at-large would mean to surrender a deliberate effort to defend the people, and by a trick to nullify their expressed will.

Mr. Taft has in mind and apply no claim whatever to a single delegate-at-large from Ohio, and any attempt to secure him or any one delegate-at-large means a deliberate effort to thwart the will of the people as expressed freely in this in the primaries, and we cannot afford for one moment to consider such an effort to defend the people of their rights in this struggle for justice and for popular rule.

With the issue clearly made, we stand for the rights of the people to elect their own president, and we have the delegates carry out their will, and any individual who would attempt to secure one delegate-at-large from Ohio for Taft is guilty of taking the law into their own hands. The delegates are to be elected by the people, and the delegates are to be elected by the people, and the delegates are to be elected by the people.

Colonel Roosevelt placed Colonel Harry T. New, chairman of the sub-committee on arrangements of the Republican National Convention, in the American Club yesterday afternoon in Chicago that the Colonel was going to that city for the national convention.

"There is nothing in it," said Mr. Roosevelt. "Of course, it is after my plans between now and convention time, but at the present time I have the slightest intention of going to Chicago."

HOLD WOMEN FOR CLINTON RIOTING

CLINTON, May 31.—Cases against six Lancaster mill strikers were called in the District Court today. Mrs. Mary Webb, for attacking Mrs. Harry Norman, was fined $10 and for intimidation of Mrs. Norman was fined $250 and was put under $2000 bonds to keep the peace. When Harry Norman denied attacking Mrs. Mary Webb and was held to $200 for John Lawrence, charged with threatening to kill Lawrence, E. E. Bell was cited, and his case was continued until next Thursday. Harry Lawrence and George Tappan charged with intimidation, were found not guilty.

In the midst of the festivities, the announcement of the engagement was made.

POOR FARM HEAD IS DISCHARGED BY LAWRENCE COUNCIL

LAWRENCE, May 31.—By a vote of 5 to 2 the City Council, in special session today, voted to discharge James J. Stanley, superintendent of the poor farm at the City House. Alderman Edward S. Manning, chairman of public health, is to take charge at once.

Manning told the light to omit Stanley, who is a Grand Army veteran and has been head of the farm for fourteen years. Mr. Stanley expressed the would correct the decision of the council in the courts. The reason given for the council's action was economy. Manning argued the city could save money by abolishing the job of superintendent of the farm.

MYSTERIOUS 'DOE' BANDIT, IS SUICIDE IN CONCORD PRISON

CONCORD, N. H., May 31.—The mysterious life inmate of the New Hampshire State prison, known as John Doe, an irretrievable information ever having been secured as to his real name and past history, committed suicide in his cell last night by hanging himself to a grating with a rope made from his mattress.

On February 19, 1906, Doe and an accomplice, Joseph Tison, after robbing a safe in Dover, boarded a train at Rockingham Junction and killed an Italian passenger after an exciting chase across the country, and on May 15 were sentenced to prison. Due for life and Tison for thirty years. Tison was transferred to the State Hospital as an insane person and on April 22 escaped from that institution and is still at large.

On November 12, 1910, Doe secured a knife and ran amuck at the prison, seriously wounding the prison physician, Dr. R. F. Gallagher, and the deputy warden, Frank D. Bailey.

Since that time he has been in solitary confinement, being regarded as the most dangerous inmate in custody in the New Hampshire State prison.

Dr. Wiley Could Make Bostonians Healthier, Says Mrs. Putnam

"AS CHAIRMAN OF HEALTH BOARD COULD DEMAND LARGE CITY APPROPRIATIONS."

50W DR. WILEY CAN
AID BOSTON CITIZENS

By securing increased appropriations as chairman of the Boston Board of Health, by enforcing laws against overcrowding in tenements, by instructing children how to live for their younger brothers and sisters.

By continuing fight against adulteration of food, by preventive work against disease.

By insisting on pure milk from interview with Mrs. William Lowell Putnam.

Mrs. William Lowell Putnam of the Milk Consumers League declares Boston will be particularly fortunate if it secures the services of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the pure food expert, as chairman of the Board of Health. Mrs. Putnam said to the AMERICAN today:

Dr. Wiley has the confidence of the country, and his coming to this city would enable those who wish certain important improvements in our methods of maintaining our health to gain their end. The recommendations of Dr. Wiley would carry great weight with any Mayor and City Council.

The position of chairman of the Board of Health, requires a first-class man, and Dr. Wiley is a first-class man. I know him personally and I know what valuable work he has done to secure pure food for the people of the United States. If he becomes our health chairman he will be able in all probability to secure larger appropriations for the health department and will be able to employ more inspectors. That is the great trouble at present. The health department is unable to enforce its regulations.

Housing Problem Serious.

Take the matter of housing. Few people know that there is greater congestion on a Charter street than even in the East side of New York. There are not as many people to a building, as the buildings are lower than in New York, but there are more in a room.

At present the health inspectors have the number of persons who may occupy a room, but they are not numerous enough to see that their orders are obeyed. Of what use is it to write on the wall in chalk that only four persons may occupy a room if ten crowd in and are not prevented from doing so?

In New York during the last year the health department has conducted a campaign among the little mothers, the young girls who have the care of their baby brothers and sisters. Doctors and nurses have been stationed in the parks and open to instruct these children how to care for the pronger ones. The propagation of knowledge of how to care for babies among the poor would prevent great loss of infant life. Dr. Wiley might introduce such a system in Boston with splendid effect.

Professor Jordan, the milk inspector, is trying very hard to get pure milk for this city, but he needs assistance, and the health board appropriations in cut down every year.

Big Field in Boston.

If people could only realize that money spent to prevent disease is the best kind of economy, and that very much more is expended to cure diseases which could easily be prevented, they would not stint the funds of the Health Department.

Dr. Wiley's specialty is the prevention of food adulteration. This work could be pursued with much profit in Boston. I think we ought to have a bureau, inspectors of slaughterhouses, but, of course, this is a matter for the State Board of Health.

The sitting of the State Milk Bill by the Legislature was one of the worst things that could have happened, and a hard blow to the friends of pure milk. We are not discouraged, however. We shall start a campaign of education, so that next year the Legislature will not dare to turn down a proposition for the public good.

MRS. CUSUMANO'S MOTHER OFFERS TO DIE INSTEAD

Roma has been so good to me. Now I am getting old and I do not know what will become of her children. Mrs. Cusumano, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Roman and another man, went to the Charleston hotel before noon today and the mother was taken to the floor and brought to her daughter by Rev. Francis Murphy. She is now in the hospital, and will, says Western Bulletin, die.

This mother and daughter remained to order for some time, and then, saying: "It was reported today that Mrs. Cusumano had died," the mother said: "I am not dead, but I am sick, and I am going to die. I am going to die, but I am not dead, but I am sick, and I am going to die."

Wants Case Reopened. Thomas J. Finley, attorney for Mrs. Cusumano, said today that when he appeared before the executive committee of the board of directors of the hospital, he was told that the case of Mrs. Cusumano was closed. He said he would request the board to reopen the case.

At the hearing, Mrs. Cusumano's sister, Mrs. Cusumano, said that when she was taken to the hospital, she was in a state of collapse. She said that she was taken to the hospital, and she was in a state of collapse.

TAFT SENDS OUT CLARK TO CARRY RHODE ISLAND APPEAL TO STICK

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 31.—(Times.)—The federal government today sent out a delegation to Rhode Island, headed by the state attorney general, to carry out the appeal to stick to the federal government.

No such appeal had been made before. The federal government had been in the habit of sending out a delegation to carry out the appeal to stick to the federal government.

The delegation was headed by the state attorney general, and it was expected that it would carry out the appeal to stick to the federal government.

MISS HUBBARD FOR SIMPLE LIFE

The modern household is full of unnecessary and unwholesome things.

Carpets and tobacco smoke, vases, pictures, curtains, wall papers and flammable hideous ornaments, all mean work and dirt.

The children wear far too many clothes—hats, gloves, stockings are only necessary for them—and think of the darling saved!

Three trained domestics could do the work of twelve households.

There should be little endowment of motherhood.

There are some more of the ideas of Miss Jessie Hubbard, the author of the famous "Simple Life" series of books, which do not mean, drink, eat, wash, or clean.

Why have so many men? Something to drink, a little water or weak tea, at noon, when they are tired, or a little of a mild, and at night a couple of eggs and some steamed vegetables—that is enough for the average householder.

"Cooking Overdone Now."

Cooking is overdone as it every other busy household. People want to be far healthier without all these other things, which are only a nuisance, and which are only a nuisance.

Disinfect or whitewash the walls—anything but the "art" papers used nowadays. Let the walls be plain, and let the floors be of wood, or of tile, or of stone, or of brick, or of concrete, or of any other material, so long as it is clean and strong.

In the same spirit of good feeling, it is to be said that the "art" papers used nowadays, which are only a nuisance, and which are only a nuisance.

But, I am including in this, the "art" papers used nowadays, which are only a nuisance, and which are only a nuisance.

Would Endow Motherhood.

The college teaches everything but cooking. Thank goodness, a professional in English has at last been established in Cambridge, England.

There should be state endowment of motherhood.

Marriage licenses should not be granted without a declaration of intent, and a declaration of intent, and a declaration of intent.

Women should refuse motherhood until they are prepared to do it.

Co-operative Housekeeping.

This is the evil which women's affairs will gradually wipe out.

"The newest goods, the freshest goods, the choicest goods, the very best of very best."

They are the goods that are soonest battered down to odd lots—and odd lots are signals to break prices.

THE "OUGHT TO" AND THE "MUST"

The "ought to" of the business is imperious. Certain goods "ought to" go at once. Hence they "must" go. And you "ought to" know that when the "ought to" and the "must" come together the result is money out of our pocket and into yours. And we shouldn't be obliged to print it.

To lose money in business judiciously is a trait of good merchandising.

HANDKERCHIEFS

Hundreds and hundreds of Handkerchiefs. Bless you, what is in sight is but a pinch of what is stored on shelves. As many tried sorts as you are likely to see together anywhere.

Three as mentionable things as we've lately done in Handkerchiefs.

Women's Linen Handkerchiefs, one corner hand embroidered; others edged with lace and still others with French colored borders: worth 25c and 35c. Choice 12^c

THE JUNE POLICY

In this lightning age we cannot rest on past achievements or crawl laggard-like along. Today we open up the June campaign.

Circumstances combine to help do some fine things for our friends.

We haven't more than a single sentence to say about great sales. We are making them every day. That's what the store is for. We always have lots of goods that are marked down.

A daily drum-beat calls up the old soldiers of goods and gives them a double-quick step toward the door.

So, then, note the fact that, no matter what the reason, there can always be found here lots and lots of desirable and reliable merchandise lower priced than elsewhere—reduced from day to day because they must be closed out.

We cannot wait for a certain month to sell down, but continually watch, like the lookout on the ship. We seek the open channel of fastest progress and steer clear of all that stops our way.

Your money shall take fresh goods at no greater cost than might otherwise go into old; hammered-down stocks.

Thus we hope to brighten the SHEPARD STORE, increase the activity of our aisles, and greeten our trade.

MUSLIN UNDERWEAR

The people everywhere have found out long since that the Shepard Store is never overstocked. Always bring back the goods that do not seem cheap enough, or are not as good as you thought.

This is the kind of carefulness we like. It keeps us on our mettle.

We have an unexampled story of Muslin Underwear—prices and kinds. We give them limited space today.

All the depleted lines accumulated during the push and rush of the just-over hurry time, and all the styles we are not going to get more of, are down to be sold at once. Many of them are in considerable quantities, and they may be precisely what you'd choose from a store.

39^c for 65c Night Gowns, made of muslin, slip-over model, embroidery yoke, trimmed with torchon lace, short sleeves.

39^c for 65c Combinations, made of muslin, corset cover and drawers—trimmed with embroidery.

50^c for 59c Drawers, made of cotton or cambric, trimmed with embroidery, ruffle headed with tucks.

29^c for 39c Corset Covers, cambric or cotton, French or fitted model, trimmed with embroidery or lace.

95^c for $1.25 Petticoats, cambric top, deep blouse trimmed with Valenciennes edgings and insertions and ribbon-run beading.

Night Gowns, made of crinkly or serpentine crepe; value $1.50. Special at 98^c

OUR WAY WITH WAISTS

Whether you care to buy or not, it is worth while for you to turn into our Waist Store. We don't make one of the Waists. We sell them for less than we could if we made them. Why shouldn't we? All the leading makers work for us. Each one tries to outdo the other, both in getting the best styles and in whitening down the prices. The result is:

You can get your pick of larger assortments for less than if we did the making.

Competition works that way in anything. For example: $1.00 for $2.00 Waists, made of marquise, entire waist tucked, panels of Irish crochet lace in centre of front; short sleeves, French cuffs.

$1.89 for $2.50 Waists, made of fine batiste, plain white net yoke and collar, front trimmed with dainty Swiss embroidery and Valenciennes insertion, trimmed back, short sleeves with lace cuffs.

Warfield Dips Into Comedy "Old Hat Peddler" Once More

Famous Actor Playing Specialty
in Lamb's Gambol
Tonight.

David Warfield as an "old hat peddler," will be a leading feature of the Lamb's Club gambol at the Boston Opera House tonight.

Those who know Warfield only in anti-one parts may not know that he actor was once doing one of the funniest vaudeville "turns" on the stage. This was not more than a dozen years or so ago.

Many remember how he amused his audiences every night at the Park Theatre here, when, as one of the comedians in a "Lamb's Review," he played an old East Side Jew who sold "second-hand" hats. His strongly bearded, his shambling walk, his shabby, shifty clothes and the Warfield smile made a strong combination.

In tonight's program Mr. Warfield will be seen again as the old hat peddler. He will try to sell to Fred Niblo one of his weird collection of hats, representing every vintage in the last twenty years. He will also tell his dog story again. He complains to Niblo how he was driven out of somebody's front yard by a ferocious barking dog.

"But," says Niblo, "don't you know that barking dogs never bite?"
"Sure! I know it, and you know it," is the reply, "but the dog, he don't know it." The Lamb will arrive at the South Station with effect, and will return up Chestnut Street, where he will be seen at the Huntington Avenue to the Opera House.

The show will begin at 8 o'clock.

The Boston & Albany Railroad will bring

WARFIELD IN OLD PART.

THE SELECTION OF WATER is an important factor in the selection of wine. Improper or unsound water makes an unpalatable beverage.

RADCLIFFE GIRL RAP'S 'TELLTALE'

Miss Mary C. Smith of Somerville, member of the senior class at Radcliffe College, protests vigorously in the current issue of the Radcliffe College Magazine against "frivolous" publishing and other misinterpretations of Radcliffe affairs in the daily papers.

Miss Smith thinks that some Radcliffe affairs are "none of the public's business." Her article reads in part:

This time around there is a decided protest against the promiscuous publishing and other misinterpretations of Radcliffe affairs in the daily papers. Advertising is commendable within certain limits, but sometimes, you know, "publicity runs rough." It is all very well, and quite proper, in fact, to report things of public interest which will make the college better known, and make people realize what and how many its activities are.

In connection with this matter, however, the writer wishes it understood that she does not intend to insinuate that there are certain "dark Dolores" which should be hidden from the public eye. No, indeed; but there are some things that are, to put it plainly, none of the public's business, and which concern Radcliffe alone.

They should, therefore, be left in Radcliffe.

The sad part of the situation, however, lies in the fact that some one or more of the students is responsible for the state of affairs which does exist. For who else could be so well acquainted with the various subjects which have been discussed, and yet so unscrupulous as to reveal what has been said at certain meetings.

And even a direct request not to publish the discussion of letters is purposely disregarded by this radical reporter. I cannot conceive of such a person showing honorable traits in other ways who would stoop to anything so unpardonable, so to say desirable.

Perhaps she does not realize how contemptible her position is.

LAUREL WREATH OF ELKS CAST IN SEA FOR TITANIC DEAD

A laurel wreath in memory of the members of the Order of Elks lost on the Titanic has been cast into the sea by Captain Irvine of the Cunard steamship Laconia.

By arrangement with the Memorial Day Committee of the lodge several days ago before the sailing of the big liner from this port, Captain Irvine was given the wreath by Deputy Immigration Commissioner Jeremiah J. Hurley, who is chief lecturer of the lodge, with the request that he cast it on the waters of the Atlantic at the Elks' home of 11 on Memorial day night.

The Laconia reached a position just south of the water where the Titanic was lost, to the same longitude, but taking the new southerly route.

BEARS CRUSH MAN IN ROXBURY HALL

In spite of attempts to keep the matter secret, it became known today that four large polar bears, performing before several hundred people in the Algonquin Hall South street, Roxbury, met upon their trainer, Benjamin Wolf, of Wakefield, and nearly lugged him to death. The spectators set dumbfounded and watched the bear fight the man. The bear, a large white male, was taken to the City Hospital, where it is being treated. The bear's trainer, a man named Wolf, was taken to the City Hospital, where it is being treated. The bear's trainer, a man named Wolf, was taken to the City Hospital, where it is being treated.

MAJOR BARRY ORATOR AT ELKS' EXERCISES

Major Barry of Cambridge was the orator of the day at the memorial exercises of the Boston Lodge of Elks, held at the Mount Hope Cemetery Chapel. "The Young Men" and "The Young Women" were sung, followed by a prayer by the chaplain of Boston Lodge. Major Barry of Cambridge then spoke.

SYRIAN BOY MISSING.

Miss Maloot, a twelve-year-old Syrian boy, son of Joseph Maloot of No. 140 South street, has been missing from his home since Monday.

I Got $1000 'Em!

200 dozen manufacturer's sample straw hats. All the season's styles, made to be sold for $2, $2.50, $3. I made a cash offer, which was accepted. The understanding was that they are to put in new inside linings, with my name on them, and not use the name of the manufacturer, as it would conflict with some of the high-priced hatters around town. These hats will be on sale today at a price of $1.40.

Big Sale Brings Big Rush

Tobias, Greenthal & Mendelson's (740, 742, 744 Broadway, N.Y.)
Stock of Suits Starts People to Buying

It's a sale with a pull—because it has real values behind it—real reasons for the prices being as low as they are. This creates confidence. Customers realize when they look at the goods that it is not a spasmodic effort to sell a few extra garments.

The suits have their worth right on them—and sewn in them. When we say that you can buy suits worth $10.00 for $7.85—the truth lies in the garments, not in what we say about them. You're convinced of the fact that $9.85 will buy $15.00 suits, or that $11.85 will purchase $18.00 values, in the same way. It's an appeal to the common sense, with the suits to make good in each instance—or you can get "Your money back if you want it."

Actual $10	Men's	Actual $15

No hard matter to grasp the $15.00 value in these suits. You can readily believe that Tobias, Greenthal & Mendelson made these suits with $15.00 as retail price. A new suit made in summer shades of tan and gray, simplest of single-breasted, three-buttoned sack coat style.

HERO DIES IN RESCUE TRIAL

John J. Powers, a Brooklyn plumber, gave his life in a vain attempt to save his friend, Alfred P. McAree, from drowning in the Westchester reservoir last night. The bodies were recovered early today.

The men, in an automobile, turned into Iron Hill street. It is a blind through fare beside the reservoir. When the car reached the end of the street and the men saw they must go back, they attempted to turn, backing their machine. The auto mobile struck a high iron fence along the reservoir embankment, and McAree was thrown into the water. Weighed by a heavy overcoat, he had time to cry just once for help before he sank.

Powers, who was on his feet and diving into the water in an attempt to save his friend, struck at his neck, pulled him up.

Just as the two sank, Mrs. Kate Lopez, who lives just back of the gate, where the tragedy occurred, rushed out with a rope to help them. She had heard the men's voices.

They sank before her eyes. Powers, struggling weakly at the rope. She called, saw they would not come up, and then ran to inform the police.

McAree's body was recovered at 1:30 p. m. Powers was found at 6. By John Lynch. Both are identified by a brother of Powers, who came from Boston and took the bodies to Brooklyn.

3,800 Boston School Cadets Parade State Flag Is Carried for First Time

HIGH SCHOOL CADETS IN ANNUAL PARADE AND THEIR FRIENDS ALONG THE ROUTE

FIRST APPEARANCE OF HYDE PARK BOYS ANOTHER FEATURE OF ANNUAL EVENT.

Dwight M. Holmes, private secretary to Governor Fox, today gave out the following statement explaining the Governor's failure to review the Boston School Regiment parade today:

Governor Fox was unable to review the Boston School Regiment this morning because, owing to the very serious illness of his father, it was impossible for him to reach the State House until after 11 o'clock. The Governor regretted, of course, his inability to witness the parade of the big cadets, but the review was made by Major Robert E. Brown and Captain Henry D. Crowley of the Governor's staff, together with Sergeant-at-Arms Peck and Mr. Weston, the official color bearer.

While parents, sisters and girl friends applauded promptly, 3,800 Boston high school cadets marched to their forty-fifth annual parade today. The Massachusetts State flag was carried this year for the first time by a high school regiment. It was borne in the color section of the Fourth Regiment by Walter Hallard. The two American flags, which are regularly carried in the school parade, were borne by Louis Morse and Basil Rehill. The State flag, with the Massachusetts coat of arms on the white rear, starting from Cambridge street, ran back, reaching the boys the lesson through Columbus avenue to Park square.

There, to Tremont street, Greenfield, School, and Beacon street, to the Common, reaching there about 11.

At the City Hall the cadets were reviewed by Mayor Fitzgerald and the City Council and at the State House by Governor Fox, staff, together with members of the House and Senate. On the Common they were reviewed by the School Committee and the Board of Education. In charge of the marching parade Sergeant Hallard of the First High School, and at the station house a physician found the boys suffering from a sprained ankle. On account of the rain the reviewing ceremony on the Common was abandoned.

EXPERT INSPECTS PORT FACILITIES

R. A. Haldiman, assistant engineer in the Philadelphia Bureau of Harbors, who is here for the city planning conference, made a study of Boston's port facilities today, under guidance of L. H. Peters, foreign freight agent of the Boston & Albany division of the New York Central railroad. Mr. Haldiman declared shipping concerns wish to divert business from New York to Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia, and it is up to these ports to make it possible.

"While Philadelphia is 100 miles from the sea," said Mr. Haldiman, "and has an $2,000,000 start, as Boston has, we are not discouraged."

You can use a data analysis tool, or you can use a data visualization tool. Both of these tools can help you to find out what your data is telling you. For example, you can use a data analysis tool to find out what the average value of a variable is. Or you can use a data visualization tool to find out what the distribution of a variable is. Both of these tools can help you to make the most of your data. So, if you have a lot of data, you should consider using a data analysis tool or a data visualization tool. This will help you to find out what your data is telling you, and you can use this information to make the most of your data.

AUTO HURTS MAY KILL MISS HURD

Miss Dorothy Hurd, who was one of the most popular girls in the South, is reported to have been injured in an automobile accident. The accident occurred on the morning of May 29, 1912, near the city of New York. Miss Hurd was driving a car when it collided with a large truck. The impact of the collision was so severe that Miss Hurd was thrown from the car and landed on the ground. She was taken to a nearby hospital, but her injuries were so serious that she is expected to die.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

Copper Metal

Has Advanced

to 17c. a Pound

By W. H. ROSS.

STOCK MARKET, May 31. Monday's market was a quiet one, with a general advance in prices. The most notable feature of the day's trading was the advance in the price of copper metal, which rose from 16c. to 17c. a pound. This advance was due to a report that the British government had decided to purchase a large quantity of copper for the construction of a new fleet of battleships. The report was first made public in the London Times, and it was followed by a similar report in the New York Times. The advance in the price of copper was also reflected in the price of copper stock, which rose from 10c. to 11c. a share.

The Boston market opened quiet, and the morning session was a quiet one. The most notable feature of the day's trading was the advance in the price of copper metal, which rose from 16c. to 17c. a pound. This advance was due to a report that the British government had decided to purchase a large quantity of copper for the construction of a new fleet of battleships. The report was first made public in the London Times, and it was followed by a similar report in the New York Times. The advance in the price of copper was also reflected in the price of copper stock, which rose from 10c. to 11c. a share.

Another Coal Price Inquiry. While the government is investigating the situation in the coal mines, the Merchants' Association of New York has issued an inquiry of its own. The inquiry is a result of a report that the coal mines in the United States are producing less coal than they are capable of producing. The Merchants' Association is concerned that this situation will result in a shortage of coal, which will have a serious effect on the economy. The association is therefore issuing an inquiry to determine the cause of the shortage and to find a way to increase production.

A New York stock market report. John D. Rockefeller's fortune is estimated to be at least $600,000,000, and that in a recent year he had an income of $137,000,000. This is a remarkable achievement, especially considering that Rockefeller was born in 1839 and died in 1920. His fortune was built up through his involvement in the oil industry, and his income was derived from the dividends of the companies he owned. Rockefeller's success is a testament to his business acumen and his ability to build a large and profitable empire.

VIOLET SPENCER, CANDIDATE FOR PRINCESS

NOW WHO IS THE PRINCESS?

Have you done your share in making new England's Princess? If not, do it now. Buy a ticket for the Princess Contest. The American is trying to find the prettiest girl in New England. There is a general mistake here as to how the winner in the Princess Contest will be selected. The contestants will be judged by the public, as indicated through their vote. The public should be able to tell which is the prettiest girl and the AMERICAN is leaving it to you. Can anything be fairer?

Not only everything has to be done, but the prettiest girl is to be found in her precinct. She may win the Princess. If she does not, she has 200 other chances to win valuable prizes. The thing to do is to enter your precinct. One of the latest returns in this interesting contest is Miss Violet Spencer of No. 27 Haverhill Street, Dorchester. Miss Spencer is popular and has many friends in Dorchester, Roxbury and Jamaica Plain. Everyone who has the same chance of winning or those entered earlier, the chances of winning are increased. The results of the contest will appear in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

Next Week Is the Governor's Opportunity to Justify the Faith of His Friends

Mr. Channing Cox is the Republican leader of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. In that body the members of his party are classified, according to their general attitude on questions, as corporation men and independents. Mr. Channing Cox is considered a corporation man.

But recent primaries throughout the country have presented very strong evidence that the bone and sinew of the Republican party do not regard men whose tendencies lie in that direction as safe public leaders.

This fact has apparently caused the Republican politicians in the Legislature to protect themselves by that best of all parties—a thrust. There was evidence of this plan in the Senate last week, when a Republican member accused Governor Foss of being in league with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. This Senator advised the Governor to take down the sign above his office and put up the sign: "J. P. Morgan & Co." He withdrew the statement later.

Now comes Mr. Cox of the House who, in opposing the Governor's Public Utilities bill, declares that the Governor has already shown to the representatives of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad the names of those whom he proposed to appoint on this powerful board which he wants created to control the railroads and street railways.

Both Senator and Representative withdrew their statements when Democrats demanded proof.

NOW WHAT EVIDENCE EXISTS THAT THE GOVERNOR HAS FORMED ANY SORT OF ALLIANCE WITH THAT MENACE TO NEW ENGLAND INTERESTS, THE NEW HAVEN RAILROAD UNDER ITS PRESENT MANAGEMENT? Is all this smoke from a Republican smudge fire or is a treacherous fire really burning in the very sanctuary of the Commonwealth, which is the Governor's office? Have we another Draper or are these Republican charges mere feints to cover the guilt of those who make them?

No evidence has so far been presented and no evidence so far exists to prove Governor Foss guilty. The facts up to date are in favor of the Governor, and those who have attacked him have been obliged to withdraw their charges when the Democrats have come to the Governor's defense.

The whispers concerning the Governor's alleged apostasy began when he sent a message to the Legislature recommending the creation of a public utilities commission, with great powers over the public service corporations, to take the place of the present isolated boards which have little power, and of the Railroad Commission, which has no power but just a MORAL INFLUENCE.

After this commission had been established, the Governor said that he was willing to permit the New Haven to lease the Boston & Maine under its agreement to inaugurate certain great improvements, with this new and powerful commission to enforce the agreement.

DOES ANYBODY BELIEVE THAT THE NEW HAVEN RAILROAD WANTS A BODY, CREATED TO CONTROL THE RAILROADS, MADE MORE POWERFUL THAN THE PRESENT RAILROAD COMMISSION?

The evidence that the New Haven was opposed to the Governor's recommendation is found in the fact that the railroad committee, controlled by the New Haven, reported favorably to the lease of the Boston & Maine WITHOUT THE PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL. And the Governor openly declared to members of the Legislature that he would veto any measure extending the powers of any existing Massachusetts railroad or railway unless his controlling commission was first established.

Now comes his message of Wednesday in which he plainly states that he will not approve any measure increasing the powers of operation of the present railroads and street railways if a commission to increase the public control of them is not first established.

Is this any evidence of an alliance with the street railways so far? Decidedly not.

But this is not all. The Governor now recommends that the city build and OWN the tunnel between the two railroads and that they be obliged to electricity WITHOUT GIVING THE NEW HAVEN A LEASE OF THE BOSTON & MAINE.

If a Governor who recommends that an important link connecting the New Haven Railroad with Northern New England be built and owned by the public; that the railroads be OBLIGED to electricity WITHOUT ANY INDUCEMENT; that he will not approve the New Haven's trolley grab in Worcester and Springfield unless a powerful commission is established to regulate and control the New Haven's management of these trolleys, and last, but not least, a Governor who has joined the business men and the people of the State in their call to the Grand Trunk to help break the present menacing and uncontrolled railroad monopoly; if a Governor who has done these things, AND MEANS THEM, IS AN ALLY of the New Haven Railroad, what constitutes a neutral and what constitutes an enemy?

No man has a right to consider the Governor an ally of the New Haven unless he has clear and conclusive evidence that the Governor DOES NOT MEAN the public things he has said and done and that he really intends to keep the Grand Trunk out of Boston upon some pretext, and to let the New Haven clinch its control of the Boston & Maine and to acquire the trolleys in more than half of Massachusetts against all precedent and policy and against the recommendation even of the Railroad Commission.

Unless the AMERICAN is terribly mistaken, the last message of the Governor rings true. His recommendations the AMERICAN heartily endorses.

It may be said that in this absolving the Governor from the charge of an alliance with the New Haven Railroad, the AMERICAN has the prejudice of its friendship for him. This is undoubtedly true. No man or institution can speak as warmly of the good intentions of a candidate for public office as the AMERICAN has spoken of Governor Foss, without feeling sensitive when he is attacked, and anxious to prove him not guilty.

LET THE AMERICAN BE NEVER YET HESITATED TO TELL THE TRUTH WHEN IT WAS UNDECEIVED.

The next week will tell whether the Governor's professions concerning the Grand Trunk are true of false and whether his anxiety for the creation of a public commission with powers sufficient to control the New Haven AS A CONDITION PRECEDENT to a complete control of the Western Massachusetts trolleys and the Boston & Maine, is sincere or hypocritical.

The AMERICAN awaits the Governor's action with absolute confidence and discloses these charges against the Governor at all only because they seem to be successful in creating a false and unfavorable impression.

The stick man in a crap game must have some ability, and the ability to make quick and correct change is quite necessary. Yum held the job down until his mistakes were so common that a new man was taken on and Yum let out. Once more he was forced to tread the "ard," and "follows," as Boston flunkey remarks.

The world seemed colder and more cheerless than ever. Yum drifted from place to place and finally wound up in the tough quarters, where the repeaters and small time politicians congregate. He knew one or two, and in a few days knew quite a bunch.

Yum lounged about the cafe getting an earful

Dorothy Dix Writes

OF The Hard Lot of Stepmothers

By DOROTHY DIX

I HAVE recently received two letters from young women who married widowers with children, and who are finding the road of a stepmother a thorny one to travel.

The woman, delicately and luxuriously dressed, declared that she is tired of the nothing more nor less than a slave to her husband's children, and that they receive all of her attentions without gratitude or appreciation.

The other woman says that she has a lot of lovely suggestions to deal with, who are prejudiced against her by their mother's people, and she wants to know how to stop the interference of these relatives, and whether she should punish the children herself, or let their father do so, and let him chastise them.

These women, and all other stepmothers I extend my heartfelt sympathy. And the same to the stepchild. Undoubtedly the job of being a stepmother is the hardest one on earth, and the one with the least pay to it. Not is it a piece to be stepped on.

There are a great many other stepmothers, but there have been many other women who have been better mothers, more intelligent, more loving and tender mothers to their stepchildren than their own mothers have been. There are many stepmothers who have come like an inspiration into the lives of motherless boys and girls, and who have loved and reared by their stepchildren like their own.

In dealing with stepchildren there is only one rule to follow, and that is the Golden Rule. Treat them as you would have some other woman treat your children were you dead and gone.

Artificial Bond Between Mother and Child Is Easily Broken

The bond between mother and child is the strongest and sweetest one in nature, but when this bond is artificially forged there is something in it that almost always makes it pull both the mother and the child beyond endurance. There is an instinctive antagonism and jealousy between the children and the woman who stands in their mother's place and the woman and the children who are her husband's but not hers. So child is capable of dealing with this situation, and new women are big enough and broad enough to meet it in the proper way.

To begin with, all children are trying. They are noisy, dirty, greedy, restless, mischievous. They are for nothing, labor, irreconcilable justice and sympathy. The wise providence of God gives them to the mother, so that she can think the greatest and most

Wilbur Wright—Hero of the Air—Is Dead

One More Name That Will Live, Another Grave to Decorate, Another Glory Added to the Achievements of Men

Copyright, 1912, by American Journal-Examiner

Wilbur Wright, the first great flying man, is dead. As the nation was decorating the graves of the brave men that won their battles on the earth, the name of Wilbur Wright was added to the list of real heroes. He is the first great, authentic hero of the air. He will be remembered and honored among those THAT HAVE HELPED TO FREE THE HUMAN RACE.

There are all kinds of slavery on this earth. The slavery of the body is not the most important. A man can be a slave in his body, and free in his mind.

Wilbur Wright helped to free the human race from the slavery of the law of gravitation.

That old law, as old as the first falling atom of matter in this universe, said to mankind: "YOU SHALL STAY GLUED TO THE EARTH. I WILL HOLD YOU THERE."

But Wilbur Wright, one of the men that break laws and thus help progress, defied the law of gravitation. Putting together the studies of others, building his machine on his own knowledge and on the knowledge supplied by others—as all successful men have done—Wright left the earth, laughed at gravitation, flew successfully, fearlessly, and to the many landmarks of progress that dot the earth, he added the first mark of progress in the air above the earth.

He will always be remembered and honored. And the world may envy him, as it may envy all of those THAT DO SOMETHING AND ADD SOMETHING TO HUMAN KNOWLEDGE AND TO HUMAN FREEDOM.

Fortunately for the ambitious, plenty of work remains to be done. Wilbur Wright flew almost as well as an eagle. Some man in the future will give to the race an engine and a science of flight compared with which the eagle will be as inefficient as some swift-running rabbit beside an express train.

And others greater than Wright, greater than any mechanical inventor, will in the future give to humanity THE REAL FREEDOM, the freedom more important than the power to fly or the power to dive deep into the sea.

Wright helped to free men from the law of gravitation. Lincoln helped to free men from the slavery of the body.

The great liberators of the future, as of the past, will be THOSE THAT FREE MEN FROM THE SLAVERY OF THE MIND.

The law of gravitation tied down the bodies of men to this earth and forbade them to fly in the beautiful air and sunlight above us.

That was a harsh slavery and ennobled the men that have helped to overcome it.

But a slavery far worse is the slavery of superstition, of ignorance, of mental degradation, that keeps men's minds in the mud, that forbids them to fly in the clear and beautiful air of free thought and free investigation.

The great men of the future, as of the past, will be those THAT SHALL TEACH THE MINDS OF MEN TO FLY.

The great flying teachers will be those that shall take the thought of man from this planet to the most distant sun, those that shall make man realize that he is master of his own destiny.

Those great apostles of freedom and of liberty, the men that shall guide thought to absolute freedom, are still to come. Happy he whose name may be included among them.

Dr. Parkhurst's Article On What the Voters Must Now Decide

Written for the American by
DR. C. H. PARKHURST

ALTHOUGH the American mind is liable to violent spasms of hysteria, it is naturally sound in its operations and ordinarily returns pretty promptly to its normal condition. It may be a good deal that is irrational and silly while its intelligence is out of commission, but is a thing that is, on the whole and in the long run, to be trusted.

At any rate, that has been the case in times past. A whirlwind campaign, like that through which we have recently been passing, in which the two most conspicuous figures in our nation's life have met in combat as critical as that of David and Goliath, has been as frantic as it has been a carnival. The result, and has thrown the general mind into a turmoil of distraction, absolutely disqualifying it for reaching well-thought-out conclusions.

Man cannot think and shout at the same time. The case is like that of a certain big locomotive, said to have been built for one of the Southern railroads, in which the whistling apparatus was so immense and required so much steam to fill it that the engineer wanted to whistle he had to stop the engine. It wouldn't whistle and so at the same time.

The nominating stage of the campaign is now nearing completion, and it is to be expected that the general condition of exhaustion consequent upon the performance of the past month will be followed by a full period of quiet, disinterested campaign proper.

And now that the engine has stopped (the whistling and the people their shouting, it is devoutly to be hoped that conditions will be so far abated as to allow for a brief season, at any rate, of temperate and serious thinking.

Whatever conclusion a patriotic citizen may arrive at, that any rate is obligatory upon him—that he do some solid thinking, that he break free from the constraints of mere personal preference, and—what is more important—be sure as to the question just at present required of him—that he avail of the opportunity to face the question in a manner of cool calculation commensurate with the urgency of the crisis.

We are not pleading for or against either candidate or other party, but are urging that in view of the unsettled condition of mind just prevailing in regard to almost every great question, a blunder committed at this juncture is certain to be a momentous blunder and liable to be fraught with incalculable consequences.
